

I went onto the FCC web-site to read the NAB filing, and I think it is wrong. Is there a good reason for it? I cannot think of what that might be, except to unnaturally protect analog radio.

If I am paying $10 per month to get SDARS, then I should be able to have local content through that service if they (XM) want to provide it, because I prefer digital (clear) local weather and news.

It seems wrong to me.
